MAKES SACRIFICE FOR COUNTRY

Gives Up A Splendid Law Practice To Again Enter Upon Cabinet Duties--Roosevelt Is Much Pleased.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
Oyster Bay, July 7.—The following was issued from the executive offices this morning: "Elihu Root has accepted the tender by President Roosevelt of the office of secretary of state and will take the oath of office in a couple of weeks, but necessarily it will be some little time before he can close his business affairs. He will not go to Washington permanently until some time in September."

Sketch of Elihu Root.
Elihu Root was born in Clinton, Oneida county, N. Y., on Feb. 15, 1845. He was the son of Dr. Oren Root, professor of mathematics at Hamilton college, from which he graduated as valedictorian of his class in 1864.

Young Root, after leaving college, taught for a year at an academy in Rome, N. Y.; then deciding to study law, he entered the University of New York, completing his legal education under John Norton Pomeroy. He was admitted to the bar in 1867, soon acquiring a reputation as one of the shrewdest young corporation lawyers in New York city.

His first important case was the suit of The People against Ingersoll, in which he upset Charles O'Connor's theory that the state, and not the country was the proper party to sue for money alleged to have been taken from the country, and never since then has Elihu Root wanted for clients. He was a candidate for judge of the court of common pleas in 1879, but was defeated.

Comes to Front in Politics.
He was appointed United States district attorney for the Southern district of New York for a term extending from March, 1883, to July, 1885. He was made a trustee of Hamilton college in 1883. He became chairman of the New York county Republican committee, and for a number of years was executive member from the Twenty-First Assembly district, and was a prominent member of the state constitutional convention.

From now on he was recognized as a political power, and more than once he was talked of as a majority or gubernatorial candidate, and was often mentioned for one judicial office or another. But his experience in 1879, when he was defeated in the campaign for judge of the court of common pleas made him fear a similar experience and he persistently has refused judicial nominations.

NEW GRAIN BOARD APPOINTED AT LAST

Acting Governor Davidson Makes Appointments Under the New Law.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 7.—Acting Governor Davidson yesterday appointed the grain and warehouse commission as follows:

John D. Shanahan of Buffalo, N. Y., recommended by Governor Higgins and the Buffalo board of trade; Mr. F. Swanson of Michigan City, N. D., recommended by Governor Sanford.

Home Andrew of Superior, recommended by a majority of the members of the Superior board of trade. The commission will organize the first of next week and plan to carry out the work provided by the new law.

Begin the Day Composedly.
Don't wake up worrying. Banish care from your mind. You have no idea what an important effect the first waking thoughts of your mind exert upon your body during the day.

"A year ago President Roosevelt used all of his influence to persuade him to accept the nomination for governor in order to strengthen the national ticket in the state, but Mr. Root, anxious to return to his remunerative law practice, after five years in the cabinet, as persistently refused."

He was mentioned as United States senator and on his resignation from the cabinet was widely talked of for the place. It had become almost a rule in Washington that the Secretary of War on retiring should step into the senate. Every Secretary of War since Cameron's time had followed this rule, and it was expected that Root's case would prove no exception.

Mr. Root has been president of the Union League club, the Bar association, and the Republican club, and he has served as president of the New England society in the city of New York. Hamilton college conferred upon him the degree of LL. D. in 1894.

Succeeds Alger in Cabinet.

Mr. Root succeeded Gen. Alger as Secretary of War on Aug. 1, 1899, receiving his portfolio from President McKinley. He found himself forthwith in a difficult position. The War Department was in a condition somewhat chaotic. Discipline in the army had fallen off, and the department was joggling along loosely. It was in this crisis that Mr. Root's legal, analytical mind stood the nation in good stead.

Instead of sudden reform, he analyzed the situation thoroughly, saw that the only adequate remedy was legislation, then prepared his arguments fully, as though the army had been his client, and went to a committee of congress to ask for it.

Then he went to congress again and got a new army of permanent formation, to take the place of the time limit troops which were carrying on the war with the prospect of speedy discharge and dissolution.

He took up the Cuban problem in the same thorough way and set to work to do what it had begun to appear would never be done. The United States had made itself Cuba's guardian, he said, and the United States must look after the island. He took a census, established proper sanitary conditions, and then taught the inhabitants how to govern themselves. He showed the same stern sense of duty and purpose in the situation in the far east.

BIG DEMONSTRATION FOR THE PRESIDENT TO VENTILATE THE SUBWAY WITH ICE

Refrigerating Plants Will Be Equipment for Providing Fresh Air in Tunnel.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, July 7.—At a meeting of the Interborough Rapid Transit company held here today arrangements were completed for better ventilating the subway. The subject of atmospheric conditions in the famous underground system has been the cause of many complaints among patrons of the road who contended that the utility of the subway would be greatly decreased unless some means could be reached of purifying the air. After repeated experiments it has been decided to equip the stations with a refrigerating plant to throw off the excessive heat which makes riding in the subway a little less than oppressive. This plan has been approved by the Board of Health as the best means of improved ventilation.

REPORTS DIFFER AS TO FIGHTING

Story From Odessa Is That Boat Has Left For Parts Unknown--Crew Is Well Disciplined By Minor Officers.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
London, July 7.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says it is reported the crew of the battleship Catherine the Great have joined the mutineers. A dispatch from Theodosia says the Potemkin stopped a British steamer and compelled her to follow the battleship. A quantity of coal was taken from the steamer. According to this dispatch the Potemkin left Theodosia last night.

Excitement at Sevastopol.
Sevastopol, July 7.—Admiral Chouknin has issued an order forbidding the sale of firearms. The population is in a ferment.

The chief of police has forbidden meetings in the district, and has notified the people not to congregate, as the troops will fire without warning should it be considered necessary.

Infantry Fires on Crew.
Theodosia, July 7.—A boat from the Kniaz Potemkin was sent ashore on Thursday morning, and was met by an infantry fire which killed two men and caused seven to jump overboard.

The torpedo boat in the hands of the mutineers fired a shell which passed over the town, and at noon the Kniaz Potemkin and the smaller craft left the port, but continued to maneuver in sight of the town. Theodosia has been declared to be in a state of war.

The inhabitants are leaving the town in compliance with the orders of the authorities.

The workmen are backing the mutineers. The crews of several ships in the harbor have joined the rebels, and the well to do class of the population has fled in panic.

Mutineers Well Disciplined.
A correspondent who visited the Kniaz Potemkin in company with the mayor found the battleship commanded by an elected committee of seven, headed by "Ensign and Quartermaster" Alexieff, a quasi commissioned officer of the Russian navy.

Everything was in order and good discipline prevailed. All the guns were loaded and it was said that the mutineers had a full complement of ammunition.

The crew consisted of 750 men and there were fifteen more in the torpedo boat No. 256. No officers were seen, but it is rumored that there were several ensigns among the crew, held prisoners and costumed as sailors.

Black Sea Fleet in Hiding.
St. Petersburg, July 7.—Up to 3 o'clock this morning no report was received from Theodosia of the arrival of the Black Sea squadron from Sevastopol. It was reported last night that Admiral Chouknin's vessels had left Sevastopol with the purpose of sinking the Kniaz Potemkin.

It is not known whether an encounter with the Kniaz Potemkin has taken place, or whether the battleship has executed its threat to bombard the city last night unless furnished with the supply of coal demanded.

One report has it that only six hours away on the other side of the peninsula Chouknin's fleet, which included six warships, not counting Rear Admiral's Krieger's squadron, lies at anchor under the menace of the guns of the fortress. The admiral evidently is afraid to test the loyalty of his crews by setting them the task of capturing the mutineers' ship.

Refuse to Attack Rebels.
The latest news from Sevastopol emphasizes the assertion that not a single ship of the squadron could be induced to fire on the Kniaz Potemkin. The ministry of marine at St. Petersburg is so alarmed by the disaffection that it contemplates the dismissal of every one of the crews, laying up all the vessels, trusting that the renegade eventually will surrender owing to the exhaustion of its ammunition.

Dispatches from Theodosia, received here, timed 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, reported that the Kniaz Potemkin was cruising off shore in sight of the town.

MAKES STATEMENT AS TO THE FACTS

C. R. SHOWALTER PLACES BLAME
WHERE IT BELONGS AT LAST

TELLS OF CIRCUMSTANCES

State Board of Control Responsible for the "Breeding Riot"—Other Interesting Facts.

After months of silence, C. R. Showalter, the retiring superintendent of the State Board of Control, has given out an interview in which the true blame for the existing conditions at the school are placed where they belong with the State Board of Control. Mr. Showalter gives the inside of the now famous "breeding riot" which occurred at the school last October and states that in March of nineteen four, Mr. Harvey Clark, as spokesman for the state board, told Mr. Showalter that he must reduce his table board to a dollar per capita basis. When this was done the complaints began among the students. The board took no notice of the petition of the students and on his own responsibility Mr. Showalter increased the food and quality. He also speaks regarding the rules of the schools relative to smoking by students in building and going into the halls. Mr. Showalter makes specific charges against the board on this account and says the president of the Board took concert club of musicians into saloon and bought liquor and cigars for them. Also that they smoke in building when visiting it, contrary to rules. He also calls attention to purchase of furniture from the St. Louis Exposition which he says will bear close inspection. The placing of a thousand dollar heating plant in a five hundred dollar hot house. Buying one hundred feet of tiling to carry a three inch steam pipe in a superintend's kitchen. The charge is also made that the three men now running state institutions know nothing whatever of needs of school and that they have not visited a single class room except with legislative committee last winter. Mr. Showalter's interview is as follows:

"At first as the school for the blind and my relation to them have been so prominently before the public for the last eight or nine months that a further statement from me at this time is fitting. I took charge as Superintendent of the School for the Blind January 1, 1903. For the first fifteen months the food question was in no sense a vexatious one. Pupils, teachers, employees and visitors all complimented the quality of our meals. In March of 1904 at a meeting of the Board of Control at which I was present, Mr. Harvey Clark, as spokesman for the board, sharply criticized me on account of the amount of our subsistence bills, charging extravagance in the management of the kitchen. On returning to the school I informed the supervisor in charge of the kitchen and the matron that our table expenses must be reduced and these orders were immediately put into operation. The cooks who were doing the actual work of the kitchen were receiving only eighteen dollars a month. I realized that if the standard of the food were reduced that it was highly essential that the quality of the cooking be of the highest order and asked for an increase in the wages of the cooks which was refused on the ground that our cooks were extravagant.

"The board also stated that while in every other state institution the weekly per capita cost of food 'per inmate' was less than one dollar in the blind institute the cost was $2.25. I replied to the board that 'per capita of inmates' was not a fair way to compare this institution with others, giving reason why subsistence based even upon 'united of total population' should be higher than in other institutions and showed that our expenses for subsistence, except for twenty five per cent increase in the price of bread and an abnormally high price for potatoes, was substantially the same as it had been for the ten or twelve preceding years. I replied further that it would be impossible for me to give proper board at a cost of $1.00 per capita 'per inmate' but that I would reduce the expenses to as nearly $1.00 per capita of population as possible. To this letter I never received a reply.

"Naturally complaints of poor table board began at once, coming from officers, teachers, employees and pupils. This was to be expected. Every boarding house keeper knows that when a standard of living is set be it ever so high, any reduction from that brings vigorous complaints from the boarders. These complaints increased until they culminated last fall in an appeal through the older boys to the state board of control. To this complaint the board made no answer. The students were indignant at being ignored. Had the board assumed then or earlier as was their plain duty, their share of the responsibility for the changes in the character of the food supplies and had they met the boys and fairly considered their grievances, had they given the support to the superintendent, which was his due, the 'breeding riot' might have been avoided. The fact that the boys felt aggrieved at being ignored that their board was not up to the standard of the preceding years, that designing politicians in the city and two or three mischief breeding persons in the school were urging them into the newspapers together with the anti election hysteria prevailing, combined to make a public scandal out of conditions which are not unusual in public institutions and which under ordinary circumstances would never have been heard of outside of the school itself. I wish to reaffirm, however, that at no time was there any scarcity of plain wholesome food and never did anyone in the institution suffer hunger because of the quality or quantity of the food supplied.

Unfair Comparison
It is unfair to compare the state school for the blind's 'per capita' with other state institutions. 'Inmates' in this school means the blind children. 'Inmates' are two thirds of the population for forty weeks of the year, for the other three months there are no 'inmates' but there are from twenty to thirty persons to provide subsistence for. For the year ending June 1905, the total population of the school report shows forty one thousand eight hundred and eighty days attendance while the attendance of 'inmates' is only 26,643 days. To charge the whole year's subsistence to inmates and compare per capita with institutions where the 'inmates' remain throughout the year and where the populations 'not inmates' is a very small percentage of the whole is manifestly unfair. Other institutions have large farms and can supply themselves with potatoes, eggs, butter, meat, fruit and etc. which we have had to buy. It costs more to feed a small institution per person than it does a large one. The school for the blind buys its own bread. This adds to the 'subsistence' expense which in other institutions is charged to 'wages and salaries.' The 'per capita of inmates' has been a bugbear of boards and nightmar of superintendents long enough. There ought to be a more rational method of determining proper subsistence expenditures in the school for the blind.

Takes Responsibility
"Since the public appeal of the boys last fall and the failure of the board to assume any responsibility for the cheapened food supply, I have been more generous in furnishing the table and the expenses this year are about what they have been under other superintendents for many years past. No charge of extravagance has been made against me since the Spring of 1904. Despite this the Board of Control declined to give me any reason for not re-electing me except that there was no precedent requiring it. Reports from Madison, however, were published in Milwaukee papers two or three days ago to the effect that the board had dropped me because of tact in management of boys and lack of business capacity. After twenty years of experience in managing large numbers of schools and boys this is the first time I have ever been charged with lack of tact in their control.

Asks Questions
"If giving moral training instead of permitting free indulgence of appetites, if requiring strict obedience to wholesome laws, if protecting the innocent and pure from the contaminating influence of the evil and impure, if putting about the school the safe guards and sanctities that should protect a true home be considered lack of tact I plead guilty. I know I have the respect and confidence of my former pupils and I have been near enough to them to receive their confidences and share with them their hopes, their efforts, their sorrows and ambitions.

Used Tobacco
"Blind boys are prone to use tobacco to excess. I do not believe tobacco should be used by growing boys. It was the rule that no one should use it in the house and boys under seventeen should not use it at all. The enforcement of this was considered by some a hardship. How much assistance the board gave me is evidenced by the well known saying among the pupils that they could always tell when the board had come from the tobacco fumors which filled the halls and corridors. It was another rule that the members of the school must keep out of saloons and refrain from the use of intoxicating liquors.

Broke the Rules
Yet the president of the Board of Control was willing to take our school concern into a saloon and treat them to beer and cigars.

"Is it any wonder that some of the boys thought the Superintendent over-exacting in restraining their 'personal liberty'?"
Concerning the business management of the school, I wish to say that while I have been superintendent, we have lived within the appropriation made by the legislature and recommended by the board; that at the end of the appropriation year last March there was a surplus in the treasury; that in addition to paying all regular current expenses out of the current expense fund, since I have taken charge of the school, nearly ten thousand dollars worth of permanent improvements have been made. I challenge the Board of Control or anyone else to show another period of two-and-one-half years in the history of the school when so many permanent improvements have been made from the current expense fund.

Increase Value
I have had the value of the farm and garden increased by increasing the acreage, planting an orchard and small fruits, improving the stock and adding poultry-raising.
Does this look like lack of business capacity on the part of the Superintendent? If the financial affairs of the institution have been poorly managed and the superintendent helped given to correct the fault, with the exception of the charge of extravagance in food supply mentioned above, the newspaper reports of three days ago are my first intimation from the Board of lack of business capacity. I have regularly made monthly estimates of what the school needed, giving details of quantity, quality, and price. These estimates have been approved without comment. During the past year only three items recommended by the Superintendent were disapproved by the board, viz: Ten dollars for a county atlas, thirty dollars for a program clock and the expenses of the Superintendent in visiting other schools for the blind.

The Board's Mistakes
Doubtless I have made mistakes, but so have the Board of Control. And I do not believe any expenditure equals the folly of buying one hundred yards of two-foot tiling to carry a three-inch steam pipe, of installing a $1,000 heating system in a $500 green-house, of putting an electric cooking outfit in the Superintendent's kitchen, or the slightly complicated World's Fair 'furniture deal.'

Of the vital interests of the school the board are ignorant. Of the courses of study, programme of recitation, and advancement of pupils in their studies, and the efficiency of teachers, the board have not to my knowledge during the past year made any inquiries or investigation.

Not a Single Visit
I do not remember of a visit during the year to a single classroom by any member of the board except a hurried inspection of the various rooms with the legislative committee in January. The three new members of the board who are now 'running things' know no more of the purposes and methods of education in the school for the blind in the literary, musical and manual training departments than might be gained by an intelligent visitor in twenty minutes.

The interests of the school for the blind demand a board able and willing to study educational and ethical problems of the institution with the same interest they do the material needs. And unless a board can be found broad-minded enough to do this, the legislature should place the management of the school in different hands.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 7.—There is bad feeling here among the faithful hangers-on in the La Follette camp, occasioned by the appointment of Dr. F. F. Bowman, a democrat, as registrar of vital statistics under the state board of health. The appointment was secured through Dr. C. A. Harper, brother-in-law of Dr. Bowman. Dr. Harper is secretary of the state board of health, with a salary of $2,500 a year. In addition to performing the duties of the office he attends to one of the largest medical practices in Madison. The Bowman family was active in opposition to the governor during the last campaign, and this fact is cited by disappointed waiters for jobs as sufficient reason for their umbrage at the recent appointment.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A Gold Shake

"Oge, old Polar Bear had just finished a dinner of frozen fish and walrus hide boots, the boots having been left him by an arctic explorer whom he had eaten at a previous meal, and was taking a quiet nap on the ice floe when he ran across a would be hunter, gold prospector, pole discoverer and what not, carrying a double barreled gun.

As soon as the hunter saw Mr. Bear he dropped his gun and began to load up with buckshot.

Curious to see this strange personage, Mr. Bear drew near. "What are you doing there, if I may be so bold?" he asked.

"Oh, I'm loading for bear," replied the hunter, putting in some more shot.

"I'M LOADING FOR BEAR."

"I hope you will forbear," said Mr. Polar, rising upon his hind legs and opening his mouth pleadingly. "I find it inconvenient to carry much lead about my person—so heavy, don't you know. But, say, why did you think of shooting in my direction?"
"Well, you see," said the hunter sadly, "I was brought up on a certain breakfast food, and every morning, as a boy, a box of this same food before my plate. I had to eat it or starve. It had a big bear on the outside, and I made up my mind, as a boy, to kill any bear that came my way—they remind me so of the breakfast food."

"Well," said Mr. Bear, "I guess if that's the case you ought to have satisfaction. You look half starved, and if it will do you good I'll stand by to make you a meal. But let me tell you how to victimize your shot scatter."

"How?" asked the hunter interestedly.
"Oh, put in one shot at a time," said Mr. Bear.

"Never thought of it," said the hunter, and emptied all the contents of his gun barrels in the snow.

Mr. Polar saw his chance and was off. "Goodbye," he yelled. "You need more breakfast food."—Atlanta Const.

C. J. DEVLIN FILES BANKRUPTCY PLEA

Seeks to Centralize All His Affairs
Under Control of the Federal Court.

AID FROM SANTA FE COMPANY

Railroad is Preparing to Render Assistance to Banker, Who Operates All Its Mines, in Order to Insure Coal Supply.

Topeka, Kan., July 7.—C. J. Devlin has filed in the United States district court a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. This action was decided upon at a lengthy conference between Mr. Devlin and his attorneys.

Mr. Devlin was in favor of the move because it would centralize the handling of all his properties, and make easier the settlement with all his creditors, the principal one of which is the First National Bank.

The statement of Devlin's liabilities is given as follows: First National bank, Topeka, $1,200,000; Central National bank, Topeka, $300,000; American National bank, Kansas City, about $283,000; National Bank of Commerce, Kansas City, about $200,000; Corn Exchange National Bank, Chicago, about $150,000; Continental National bank, Chicago, $150,000; Central Trust company, Chicago, about $70,000; Bank of Topeka, Topeka, about $30,000; Union National bank, of Kansas City, about $20,000; Hirsch, St. Louis, about $5,000; The Merchants' National bank, Topeka, about $5,000; Long Brothers, Kansas City, about $4,000; Southwestern Fuel company, Topeka, $153,000; Fourth National bank, St. Louis, about $200,000; First National bank, Topeka, Ill.; Spring Valley National bank, Spring Valley, Ill.; and two national banks in the city of New York, whose names the petitioners do not know, amounts not given.

Santa Fe to Give Aid.

The Santa Fe Railroad is preparing to extend aid to all the Devlin companies until such a time as a final settlement can be made. This step is being considered by the company as the best method of protecting itself from loss. All the Santa Fe mines in Kansas are being operated by Devlin, and it is necessary to keep the mines running in order that the road may be supplied with coal.

Governor Hoch fixed the new bond to be given State Treasurer Kelly at $750,000, and also asked Kelly to give a bond of $500,000 to replace the old bond, signed by Devlin, which Kelly gave last winter.

Charles S. Gleé, who has been investigating the conditions of the estate of C. J. Devlin, said there was also lately no justification for the report that Mr. Devlin owed $700,000 in Baltimore. There is, it was stated, a probability that the Devlin coal mines at Topeka, Ill., and Marquette, Mich., and also the Topeka and Marquette Railroad may be sold.

RAPID TOWN BUILDING.

Details of a Coal Company's Scheme in Colorado.

No better example of the way Colorado towns spring up in a night can be found than in the present plans of one of the great coal companies of the state, says the Denver Republican.

The company has let the contract for the construction of an entire village to be established in the coal fields sixty miles north of Denver. Thirty cottages to cost $600 each, four houses for officials to cost $2,500 each and a general store and boarding house to cost $5,000 will be erected at once.

Streets will be graded and surfaced, sidewalks laid, gardens provided, small parks constructed, swimming pools for the miners built and an electric lighting and water plant placed in operation before a permanent resident will be allowed to enter the town. The whole investment will approximate $100,000.

Costly Whaling Expedition.

Modern whaling is exemplified in a scheme in operation at Sechart, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where a whaling station, which cost $80,000, has recently been established, says a San Francisco dispatch to the Kansas City Star. One hundred men will be employed in transferring the carcasses of whales into various profitable products. Every part of the leviathans is utilized. The whales will be caught by the modern steam whaler Orion, recently arrived from Europe, which will cruise about instead of using small boats in the chase, the whales will be harpooned by modern devices from the deck of the Orion, and patent reels and special winches will help to take care of the whale after he is conquered.

To Tighten Lamp Glasses.
Lamp catnights and gas globes will last much longer if they are put in the wash boiler with enough cold water to cover them and then slowly boiled. That is, the water must be gradually allowed to reach the boiling point. When they are removed they will be "toughened" to an extent which will prevent their likelihood of cracking readily.

Facts for the Settler Regarding Cost and Profit of Farming in Western Canada

In presenting the subject we have to deal with in which prospective settlers and investors are most interested, and in order to answer the questions as to cost and profit from grain growing in western Canada, we copy the following table given out by the manager of the Government Experiment Farm, carefully prepared after years of experience in the cost of producing one acre of wheat, which in this case is $9.64. REMEMBER that these figures are based upon hiring all the work done in connection with the farm. If the settler performs the labor himself then the only outlay in cash would be for seed, twine and threshing, in which case he would save nearly two-thirds of the cost of production. We have based our figures on an average yield of 35 bushels per acre (which is less than the average for the past 12 years) at a price of only 75c per bushel.

COST OF PRODUCTION OF ONE ACRE OF WHEAT.

Breaking the prairie sod.....$3.00
Harrowing.....20
Seed wheat, 1 1/4 bushels @ $1.00.....1.25
Per bushel......1.25
Seeding......25
Cutting, binding including twine 1.25
Shocking......25
Threshing @ 6c per bushel.....2.10
Hauling to Market, 2c per bu......70
Interest on $10—cost of one acre of land......60
One year's taxes on one acre of land......04

Total cost of production one acre.....$9.64
35 bushels of wheat per acre @ 75c.....$26.25
Net profit per acre.....$16.61

The cost of production the second year will be reduced to $7.99 per acre, inasmuch as second plowing can be done for $1.25 per acre instead of $3.00 for sod breaking.

The above figures extended over 640 acres will give the following remarkable result:

640 acres, 35 bushels per acre being 22,400 bushels, @ 75c per bushel.....$16,800.00

Cost of production at $9.64 per acre.....6,169.60

One year's net profit.....$10,630.40
Original cost of land $10 per acre.....6,400.00

Leaving a net profit of.....$4,230.40
The land has paid for itself. You have your $14,000, the cost of the land, returned to you, all expense of farming paid and a clear gain of $4,230.40. The land is now under a high state of cultivation and worth $15 per acre or $9,600.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, July 7.—Easily Mended.—The Albany Journal says: "The Democratic Journalists are predicting a split in the Republican party. If this should happen it is suggested that President Johnson as an old mender, will be able to repair the breaches without difficulty."

Matt Carpenter's Oration.—We had the pleasure of listening to the brilliant oration which Matt H. Carpenter Esq. delivered on the Fourth in Milwaukee. Always holding that gentleman's oratorical abilities in high esteem, we may say, in all candor, that his address on the Fourth was an additional evidence of his great power and charming eloquence. The oration was not only a splendid scholastic effort, but was pervaded by a sound and practical philosophy, relating to our civil polity. He took radical ground in favor of the equality of all men before the law—a sentiment which was capably and plausibly by the vast assemblage present. The oration, though evidently well studied and digested, was unwritten and delivered in the rapid and graceful off-hand style of its eloquent author.

To The Public.—I have never had occasion to appear as an apologist and would not now represent that character if I did not consider it just to myself. The failure in justice to my balloons on the Fourth is attributable to the want of the proper material in the fluid used for elevating them. I ordered the material of a certain drugist in this city and gave him the necessary instructions as to what it should be composed of. Among the essential ingredients is camphene. There being, no camphene in the city, the drugist above referred to used something else in its place, without notifying me of the fact until the afternoon of the 5th. After four failures I discovered the trouble, and by changing the material I succeeded in getting up three of the seven balloons. These balloons were the largest and best I have ever made, and were tried before hand and were found to be perfect. While I sincerely regret this failure, (the only time I have ever failed in balloons in my life) I do not regret the circumstances, hold myself at all responsible for it, and I believe that the public will not charge me with any neglect in the premises. WM. A. REYNOLDS.

MINERS AND OWNERS WRANGLE OVER SCALE

Decision by Judge Gray Awaits Settlement of Pay for Shot-Firers in Illinois Mines.

Springfield, Ill., July 7.—There was a hitch in the proceedings of the joint conference between the executive boards of the Illinois Coal Operators' association and the United Mine Workers yesterday, when the joint scale committee met to fix a wage scale for the shot firers, provided for by the law which went into effect July 1.

The operators in the proposition which they presented to the committee, undertook to fix the duties of the shot firers, and the miners objected to the specifications. According to the contention of the latter, many of the duties imposed by the proposition were not contemplated in the new law, and to put them into effect would destroy the force of the legislative enactment. The operators, on the other hand, insisted that none of the duties set forth was incompatible with the work of shot-firing, and held that in no wise would they interfere with the operation of the law.

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was in Chicago. He said that he did not know what the arbitration decision is, but that it would be binding and that it will remain unknown until the pay for "shot firers" is agreed upon.

PRINCESSE GOWN WITH EMBROIDERED LACE

The princesse mode is one that grows daily in favor, especially for the frocks intended to grace formal occasions. In the illustration the old ivory shade of crepe de chine is supplemented with much lace, the pattern of which is brought out with ribbon embroideries. These are in the form of darts and pointed motifs, and are so much in vogue in this connection, to which white chiffon is applied in pleats, an irregularly shaped yoke, to which white chiffon is applied in pleats, and just below the bust the crepe de chine is employed to fashion the body part. The wrought lace conceals the point of joining, and the crepe is laid in side pleats that much facilitate the fitting process. At the knee the wrought lace is again interposed, and this is made to form a flounce effect, the crepe appearing at the feet, where deep min's folds serve to give it the required weight. The sleeves are simply a mass of chiffon puffs, with the ribbon-wrought lace appearing in the guise of flounces at intervals.

PRESS COMMENT.

Atchison Globe: Old fashioned people think a preacher isn't doing any spiritual good unless he hollers and sweats.

Superior Telegram: Now that the Fourth of July and half of the Sundays in the year have been passed, the weather ought to clear up until Labor Day.

Shobogan Journal: A Fond du Lac man has been arrested for selling bad butter. The persons who ate it were let off with a lecture, presumably.

Oshkosh Northwestern: And just to think that by this time a short year hence we will again be in the midst of another political campaign.

Exchange: The mutineers on board the Kiaz Potemkin are not, however, the first people who have used a government war ship as a private yacht.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The Waukesha Freeman continues to nominate Governor La Follette for the presidency with a regularity that speaks volumes for its affection, or gratitude, or hope, or whatever it may be called.

Milwaukee News: Having made a billion dollars by starting in business when other boys were at school, Mr. Rockefeller is able to realize the mistake that he made in not getting an education when he had a chance.

Madison Journal: "It is now illegal to buy or give away cigarettes in Wisconsin and good citizens will obey the law. It is permissible to joke about it, but to defy the law at any point is to put oneself in the class with the anarchist who killed McKinley."

Chicago Record-Herald: While preaching at Des Moines a few nights ago Rev. Sam Jones called his hearers "a pack of fools," and there were loud cries of "Amen" in various parts of the hall. Rev. Sam's followers evidently know a fool when they see one.

Madison Journal: The late General Hilton, the hotel man, was an honor to his calling, as he would have been today. He was a man of fine appearance, was Gov. Atgild's adjutant general, and "held the desk" at most of the best hotels. He was a native of the state of Maine and had an affectionate fondness for his old home and its people.

La Crosse Chronicle: The taking of a census is always a disappointment. The figures never come up to what is expected as the ideas people form of the growth of the city are always in advance of the facts. However, each census puts on the brake and gives another starting point from which to figure. The present census taken by the state under the direction of the officers of the ministry of civil divisions promises to be not unlike other affairs of the same kind.

Menominee (Mich.) Herald Leader: See what we did yesterday, in the face of threatening weather, and let the lesson of the Fourth of 1905 be that there is civic work to be done, or civic cause to be advanced, then the people in every corner of every ward in the city can beat any record of any city on earth if they will work together with a determination to win.

Brodhead Register: The rain started in shortly after seven, and throughout the entire day, frequent showers followed each other. In spite of this, more than three hundred left the city for Janesville, Monroe, Albany and the Parks, and had the day been pleasant, it is probable that hundreds of others would have gone out for the day. The celebrations at all of these places were interfered with owing to the rains, but at Janesville and Monroe the programs were carried out in full.

Monasha Record: Now it is said that Senator Sproner will be offered the position made vacant by the death of John Hay. As the able Wisconsin senator has been a power in our foreign affairs for a long time it would surprise no one if the president should tender him the position, and he could find no more able man to whom to tender it, but considering the political situation in this state, it is extremely doubtful if the senator would accept it.

Milwaukee Free Press: There has been many a bitter thing said against John Hay by newspapers of the United States, in condemnation of some of his wisest and most patriotic acts—said because the persons saying them were Anglophobes; said by newspapers which are now vying with the saner sort in paying tributes to the great statesmanship of the dead premier. It is such an easy matter to rave and rage about matters we do not quite understand.

Philadelphia Record: Walter Wellman asks a good many significant questions about the Equitable Assurance Society in his New York correspondence with the Chicago Record-Herald. But he does not ask how Senator Chauncey M. Depew earned $20,000 a year from the Equitable legal services. When the Equitable had need of legal services it employed other counsel. The annual contribution of $20,000 to Depew was evidently paid for his friendly smiles and his reasonable jocundity.

Milwaukee Daily News: In stopping the leaks in the Equitable "Overlord" Morion has pried loose Chauncey M. Depew with his "retainer" of $20,000 a year. David B. Hill, a better lawyer and a more astute politician has been severed from his annual fee of $5,000. It is not of record that either of these two distinguished politicians ever rendered any service to the Equitable society other than the service rendered by Depew in the role of a dummy director. As they were "retained" in their "capacity" of attorneys, they may keep what they have gotten. The law and the courts are considerate of lawyers' fees.

Exchange: One of those days, when the cruel war is over, some Gilbert and Sullivan will, let us hope, work up the Black sea practical affair into a comic opera. The spectacle of the unting of all the officers, the terrorizing of the coast of the big sea, the disarming of all the other ships on the sea to keep them from joining the mutiny, and the flight of the government of Russia and of all the neighboring governments, and the pirates themselves frightened stiff over the coming of the torpedo boats to blow them out of the water, would work up into something that would hold the audience until the curtain drops.

New York Tribune: A Philadelphia lawyer who has a telephone on a four party wire in his house had a recent experience of human curiosity. On such a telephone arrangement any one or all of the four subscribers may hear any conversation if they wish to eavesdrop. The lawyer's wife suspected one of the neighbors of eavesdropping. "Saturday," said the lawyer, "she held a prearranged conversation over the telephone with me, and suddenly shut me off." She explained that one of her neighbors was eavesdropping, and that she intended to have the thing stopped. "I know the woman well," she said, and the next time she speaks to me I'll insult her." Later my wife explained that she could tell the culprit when she avoided her. Next day we went to church to make the test and met an awful shock. Not one of our three neighbors on the party line noticed us, although they had always been very friendly. My wife found the culprits all right, but she had neglected to figure on the natural curiosity of all women."

REV. WARD ENJOYS HIS TRIP ABROAD

Writes Interesting Letter From Paris—May Visit Russia—His Idea of English Gunners.

Father Mathias J. Ward of the St. Thomas Roman Catholic church of Beloit and a clergyman well known over Southern Wisconsin, who is now in Europe to visit the pope, has written an interesting letter to a Beloit friend. The missive is dated from Paris, June 19, and is as follows:

"I just arrived in Paris last night and took a stroll to the church of St. Roch, the Grand opera-house, and the Madeleine. The rest must wait till my return from Rome.

"We had a most delightful ocean trip—calm weather with some rain and nine days of stale jokes, card parties and concerts and some pretty good witty speeches.

Chides Englishmen
"At Queenstown we were just in time to witness the English target practice. The distance I should judge was about four miles. One shot out of a dozen hit the target just about right. The rest were several feet out of the way. Some Englishmen on our boat thought it was remarkably well done. Of course we Yankees resented that and wanted them to come over to America where we would give them some instructions, as it was now a long time since we had given them any. We did not see anything of Liverpool, and only a little of London—Buckingham Palace, house of parliament, Westminster abbey and the new cathedral.

Is in Good Health
"We left there Sunday morning, June 18, and arrived here at 6 o'clock, p. m., the same day. We start today for Genoa, stay there one night and then go on to Rome. When I finish up matters in Rome I will spend the balance of my vacation visiting different countries on the way back. I have had a good jolly crowd all the way and the time has seemed very short, although I have been two weeks on the way.

"I am feeling first class and enjoy the trip very much. I will probably drop you another line when I get back to Ireland. Whether I shall go to Russia or not I can't determine until I get to Rome. I expect to be in Rome next Thursday."

Police Prepare to Enforce Ordinance—Mix-Up in Saloon and Session of Uplighters Last Night.

Two hundred printed copies of the anti-spitting ordinance were to be posted by City Marshal Constock and his assistants on the main thoroughfares of the city today. Head Cut by a Fall

Peter Riley, a stone mason by trade, engaged in an argument with the proprietor of a well-known saloon last evening and claimed to have a beer-bottle broken over his head. A gash was cut in the scalp which required thirteen stitches, a Dr. Edder's office. Mr. Riley also received two bad cuts in the face. J. C. Karberg, the saloon proprietor, says that Riley became abusive and that he slapped him with his open hand. In falling Riley hit his head against the hinge of a door.

Officer Bear appeared on the scene just as the warming up process was well under way and took charge of the Chicago man. A CITY OF LIGHTS.

Plan to Make Denver Best Illuminated of All Cities.

A movement is on foot to make Denver the best lighted city in the world, says the Chicago American. Already counted the cleanest, its power to attract the tourist is to be increased by a lighting system that will make its streets at night resemble the courts of a world's fair and make it famous as "the City of Lights."

It is, in fact, from the wonderfully beautiful effects secured at the Chicago, Buffalo and St. Louis exhibitions that the idea of lighting the streets of the city has been derived, and the men who planned these effects have been brought to Denver to undertake to do for a city's lighting that which has been accomplished for the fair grounds. The first step toward the big plan for Denver will be the erection of thirty-three steel arches to span Sixteenth street, the principal thoroughfare of the city, each arch to carry 220 incandescent electric light bulbs. The arches will reach from curb line to curb line and from them will also be suspended the trolley wires of the tramway line, and so all other poles along the street will be removed and full sweep given the eye in the view of the glowing arches of light. The arches are in themselves ornamental and in replacing ordinary poles will even in the daylight add to the beauty of the street. It will all be in a measure theatrical or circus, but is considered desirable in a city so much sought by the tourist and sightseer as is Denver. At the same time the service result is expected to be much better than is secured from the arc lights on which the public lighting of the city at present depends.

WHAT THE SIMPLON MEANS.

New Tunnel Will Open a Romantic and Historic Path.

Deshler Welch in his article, "The Piercing of the Simplon," in the June Century says:
But the piercing of the Simplon will, unappreciated, bring with it the final achievement of one of the most romantic and grandly historical paths in human expedition—the closing curtain in the most picturesque drama Europe has afforded. The Napoleonic spectacle was full of surprises. Its argument narrates the complications of society and war; its complexities detail the ennoblement of personal magnetism and force.

The superbly built road over the Alps has remained one of the most fascinating dimensions for the thoughtful tourist and has been fraught with memorable experiences. From the moment of embarkation in the yellow diligence, when the whip was cracked over the heads of the post horses at Brig, until the arrival in the gorge of the Gondo at Iselle it was a continuously unfolding tableau of grandeur and charm.

The overture had begun back in the Rhone valley with the castles of St. Pierre and the towers of Louche and Martigny at the foot of the Great St. Bernard. But when the ascension of the Simplon began it became a long series of windings through fortified abbeys and through the widest of mountain recesses. One was awed by the splendor and stirred with conflicting emotions. It was indeed a refuge—the hospice of the Augustine monks. Who that has experienced it will ever forget the welcoming hospitality of the four secluded brethren in that desolate spot?

MORE CITY LIGHTS TO BE ASKED FOR

Lighting Committee of the Council Holds Session—Should City Buy Strings of Incandescents?

At a special meeting of the lighting committee of the city council consisting of Aldermen Sheridan, Jackson, Brockhaus, and Merrill, the advisability of providing more lights for the city streets was discussed and it was decided to recommend a dozen new arc lights and several incandescents to be placed in various parts of the city. It has been suggested that the city buy the strings of incandescent lights which were used in the recent Fourth of July celebration in order that they may be always in readiness for future occasions of the kind. If this could be done most people would agree that it would prove an excellent investment.

HOW SUGAR BEETS IN THE COUNTY ARE NOW

Lafayette Myers Gives Some Interesting Data for Farmers' Consideration.

(By Lafayette Myers.)
The sugar beet fields in general are in very good condition and where the crop has been given attention the fields present an excellent showing. The frequent rains, while starting a good growth of weeds and grass, have been a great benefit to the beets themselves and the crop is much further advanced in growth than it was last year at this time. A great improvement has been noticed in the hand working of the crop this season and many of the old growers are handling almost twice the acreage this year. There has been no lack of help for those who need it but the majority of the growers are getting along with the help they have at their own homes. There are, of course, a few fields that show lack of attention, but this is the case in every other farm crop grown by the happy-go-lucky shiftless farmer.

I would say that the general outlook for a very large sugar beet yield is excellent and the grower who has kept his field well cultivated and free of weeds will be well repaid at harvest time.

Frequent hoeing and cultivating is what the crop demands. Many farmers are satisfied with cultivating two or three times during the season, when if they would cultivate six or seven or eight times their yield would be increased from two to four tons per acre. A word of advice to those who have fields in which the leaves are covering or have covered the rows—Go through the field once more with the cultivator, set it with a single shovel for the center of each row and run it from three to five inches deep. The beet will not be injured by the cultivating off of a few leaves and the cultivating will do them a great deal of good. However, do not till up with the cultivator. Level cultivation for beets is the best in all cases.

Mr. E. H. Marvin, agent of the American Express company, says that the Gurney is as good as any ten-cent cigar he ever smoked.

CONCERT ENJOYED BY A LARGE CROWD

Fourth Open-Air Recital of Imperial Band Was Given at Court House Park Last Night.

There was a large crowd gathered at Court House Park last evening for the fourth open-air concert of the Imperial band. The concert came at a favorable time to break up the usual reaction of a day or two of dullness following the big Fourth celebration.

MAYOR GORMAN OF KENOSHA DENIES MOST OF CHARGES

Preferred by M. H. Whittaker, in Adverse Examination to Discover Facts He Would Allege.

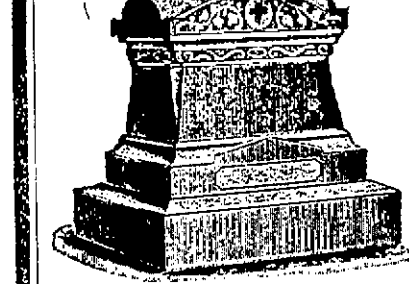

For four hours yesterday Mayor James Gorman of Kenosha was on a stand for adverse examination as a preliminary to the $10,000 damage action that is to be brought against him by Secretary M. H. Whittaker of the State Barbers' board. In answer to questions propounded by Charles Pierce, the attorney for the plaintiff, Gorman made a specific denial of every charge. He admitted that since the time of the assault on the Janesville man he had forwarded him a check for his license as a barber. It is not anticipated that the case will be tried in Kenosha county. Unless a change of venue is secured the trial will be held in Kenosha county.

OPERATION AVOIDED
EXPERIENCE OF MISS MERKLEY

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable. How She Escaped It

When a physician tells a woman suffering with ovarian or womb trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and she hesitates to allow of women coming for ovarian or womb operations.

There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of ovarian and womb trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, no woman should submit to one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is free.

Miss Margaret Merkley of 275 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—
"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, shooting pains through the pelvic organs, bearing down pains and cramps compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said I had ovarian trouble and ulceration and advised an operation. To this I strongly objected and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The ulceration quickly healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared and I am once more strong, vigorous and well."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive—if you have pain or swelling low down in the left side, bearing down pains, leucorrhea, don't neglect yourself; try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The choicest fish contains the largest per centage of water. Thus turbot and sole are credited with 78 per cent, while the commoner inhabitants of the deep blue sea are content with from 40 to 60 per cent, as in the case of the homely herring.

NOVELTY IN LAUNCHES

Craft Designed to Demonstrate Power of Herrschhoff Motor.

MAY BE SPEEDIEST OF HER CLASS

Designer Hopes to Make Thirty-five Miles an Hour—If Successful a Fleet of Fastest Torpedo Boats Afloat May Be Built—Second Combustion Chamber in Same Cylinder Doubles Horsepower of New Motor.

Nearly fit for the launching, which will take place early in July, and guarded day and night, so that only a few of the employees have seen the craft, there lies on the stocks in the pattern room of the American and British Manufacturing company's works at Bridgeport, Conn., a motor launch which it is expected will prove to be the fastest boat of her dimensions in the world, and it is the hope of her designer, Charles Frederick Herrschhoff, that she will surpass the world's record of any vessel, says a special dispatch from Bridgeport, Conn., to the New York Herald.

Built to demonstrate the motor that will furnish the power, the launch will be the forerunner of a fleet of torpedo boats to be far away in the van of the present speediest vessels of any navy.

With the utmost secrecy the launch has been constructed, and those who have visited the works to investigate have been peremptorily ordered away, the intention of the designer being to enter the boat as a surprise in the motor boat races to be held this season both in the United States and abroad.

To be named the Den, the launch is thirty-five feet long on the water line, has a breadth of four feet six inches and a draught which at full speed of six inches. The weight of the hull, which is constructed of wood, is 300 pounds, and the weight of the entire boat, crew and gasoline fuel is when in racing trim 1,800 pounds.

Equipped with a two crank motor with an estimated horsepower of eighty, this hull, built on the "skip-jack" model, is expected to be driven at a speed of from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour. Mr. Herrschhoff modestly has stated that the former figure will be reached, while it is known that he will be disappointed if the launch does not make a mile for every foot of her water line length.

It is the improved type of the motor that is expected to make of the Den the fastest craft afloat, and, simply expressed, the motor has by the introduction of a second combustion chamber in the same cylinder doubled its horsepower without other change than a slight addition of weight in the castings in order to produce the requisite strength. The motor has therefore two impulses instead of one at every revolution of its cylinder crank, and by the adjustment of the crank a two cylinder engine is produced that, with its increase of horsepower, runs steadily and by the balancing of the explosive impulses has absolutely no vibration, yet running at a rate of 3,000 revolutions per minute.

Mr. Herrschhoff prepared the plans of the motor as late as the middle of January last, and the officials of the International Power company approved them at once, so that the construction could be hastened for the demonstration. In the intervening time the young designer has utilized his experience, gained in the designing of torpedo boats when with the Triggs company a few years ago, to create new designs for a fleet for which a well founded rumor has it that contracts with at least two governments have already been made.

Officials of the company would not discuss the alleged torpedo boat contracts, but from an authentic source it has been learned that the boats to be constructed for some two at least of the navies of the principal world powers are to be about 135 and 210 feet in length and are to have hydro carbon engines developing 2,500 horsepower and a speed of 44.6 knots, a speed so far unapproached by the fastest war craft of any nation.

Eighteen boats are to be constructed, and by the use of kerosene or fuel oil when cruising at a speed of twenty knots the cruising radius of the smaller of the torpedo fleet is to be 3,500 miles and the larger boats 4,400 miles. Gasoline is to be the fuel for the motors at high speed.

For what nations the boats are to be constructed is yet guarded more jealously than the building of Mr. Herrschhoff's launch. For over a year he has resided in Bridgeport and worked quietly upon his plans, with hardly the workmen at the works being aware that the young man, now in his twenty-sixth year, is one of the family of celebrated designers of fast vessels.

Plant Sanitarium.
A sanitarium for plants is the latest novelty in Paris. It is intended chiefly for such exotic plants as suffer from electric light and from exposure while being transferred from one place to another. The treatment consists in putting them into moist houses and allowing light to reach them only a few hours a day.

Tobacco and Deafness.
Tobacco has been discovered by M. Delle, a French physiologist, to have a deleterious action upon the auditory nerve. He therefore cautions moderation in the use of the drug and avoiding it altogether where deafness has already begun or where there is a family history of such troubles.

Mayme Richards, aged 5 years, of Itasca, Wis., visiting her grandmother at North Freedom, was badly burned about the limbs and lower portion of the body by the upsetting of a wash boiler of scalding water.

QUITS GOOD PRACTICE FOR PLACE ON BENCH

Noted Corporation Lawyer Accepts Honor That Pays Him 1 Per Cent of His Earning Power.

New York, July 7.—James B. Dill, one of the foremost corporation lawyers of America, has been appointed by Governor Stokes of New Jersey a judge of the court of errors and appeals of that state, the home of trusts. He surrenders an income of $300,000 a year from his law practice to become a judge with a salary of $30,000 a year. His last private act was to refuse a retainer of $25,000 offered by an insurance financier.

No personal event of recent times has caused so much comment in the Wall street region as this appointment and its acceptance. Although maintaining his residence in New Jersey, Mr. Dill has been considered a New York lawyer. His office is in the heart of the financial region, close by the Stock Exchange, the subtreasury, the leading banks and the life insurance buildings.

Many of the great trusts have been his clients—indeed he was the legal father of scores of them—and he has been sought in consultation in nearly every important financial litigation.

According to a close friend of Mr. Dill the step from the riches of corporation law to the comparatively dignified poverty of the bench was taken after mature thought, in which the recent scandals of high finance and the demands made upon lawyers to save their capitalistic clients from the law had weighty influence on his decision.

All the Appearance.
A small boy from the north who was visiting a relative in one of the southern states where convict labor is employed in public improvements became very interested in the men and their black and white striped clothes. One day he went to a circus and for the first time in his life saw a zebra. "Oh, aunte," he cried, "look at the convict mule."—Lippincott's.

Temper Your Tones.
Guard yourself carefully from falling into careless habits of voice. Often a sharp voice shows far more ill will than the heart feels, but people do not know that the speaker's "bark" is worse than her bite," and they believe her to be ill-tempered and disagreeable, so watch the tone in which you speak, and take care that it is gentle and sweet.

Rubber Shrub.
Interest in Mexico is increasing in the gualupe shrub growing on the northern plateau of Mexico, from which rubber is being extracted. Several companies have been formed to construct factories and exploit the product.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

And then I giggled outright.

Just 'cause—I had pushed that side box till it swung aside on hinges, in a little secret nest, was a pile of those same crisp, crinkly paper things I'd been looking for.

20—40—60—110—160—210—260—310! Three hundred and ten dollars, Mag. Monahan. Three hundred and ten, and Nance Olden!

"Glory be!" I whispered.

"Glory be! I damned!" I heard behind me.

I turned. The bills just leaked out of my hand on to the floor.

The Bachelor Beauty had come home, Mag, and nabbed the poor princess, instead of her catching him napping.

He wasn't a beauty, either—a big, stout fellow with a black mustache. His hand on my shoulder held me tight, but the look in his eyes behind his glasses held me tighter. I threw out my arms over the desk and hid my face.

Caught! Nancy Olden, with her hands dripping, and not a lie in her smart mouth!

He picked up the bills I had dropped, counted them and put them in his pocket to sleep. And it's because your kind gets too much, that my kind gets so little it has to piece it out with this sort of thing. No, you don't know it quite all.

"There's a girl named Nance Olden that could tell you a lot, smart as you are. She could show you the inside of the Cruelty, where she was put so young she never knew that children had mothers and fathers, till a red-haired girl named Mag Monahan told her; and then she was mighty glad she hadn't any. She thought that all little girls were bloodless and dirty, and all little boys were filthy and had black purple marks where their fathers had tried to gouge out their eyes. She thought all women were like the matron who came with a visitor up to the bare room, where was played without toys—the new, dirty, newly-bruised ones of us—and said: 'Here, chicks, is a lady who's come to see you. Tell her how happy you are here.' Then Mag's freckled little face, her finger in her mouth, looked up like this. She was always afraid it might be her mother come for her. And the crippled boy jerked himself this way—I used to mimic him, and he'd laugh with the rest of them—over the bare floor. He always hoped for a penny. Sometimes he even got it.

"And the boy with the gouged eye—he would hold his pants up like this. He had just come in, and there was nothing to sit him. And he'd put his other hand over his bad eye and blink up at her like this. And the little boy—oh! ha! ha! ha! you ought to have seen that little boy. He was in skirts, an old dress they'd given me to wear the first day I came; there were no pants small enough for him. He'd back up into the corner and hide his face—like this—and peep over his shoulder; like he had a squint that way, that made his face so funny. See, it makes you laugh yourself. But his body—my God!—it was blue with welts! And me—I'd put the baby down that'd been left on the doorstep of the Cruelty, and I'd walk up to the lady, the nice, patronizing, rich lady, with her handkerchief to her nose and her longtongue to her eyes—see, like this. I knew just what graft would work her. I knew what she wanted there. I'd learned. So I'd make her a curtsy like this, and in the plousses: slug-song I'd—"

There was a heavy step in the hall—it was the policeman! I'd forgot while I was talking. I was back—back to the empty garret, at the top of the Cruelty. I could smell the smell of the poor, the dirty, weak sick poor. I could taste the porridge in the thick little bowls, like those in the bear story Molly told her kid. I could hear the stifled sobs that wise, poor children give—quiet ones, so they'll not be beaten again. I could feel the night, when strange, deserted, tortured babies lie for the first time, each in his small white cot, the new ones waking the old with their cries in a nightmare of what had happened before they got to the Cruelty. I could see the world barred over, as I saw it first through the Cruelty's barred windows, and as I must see it again, now that—

"You see, you don't know it quite all—yet, Mr. Manager!" I spat it out at him, and then walked to the cop my hands ready for the bracelets.

"But there's one thing I do know!" He's a big fellow but quick on his feet, and in a minute he was up and between me and the cop. "And there isn't a theatrical man in all America that knows it quicker than Sner Obermuller, that can detect it sooner and develop it better. And you've got it, girl, you've got it! Officer, take this for your trouble. I couldn't hold the fellow, after all. Never mind which way he went; I'll call up the office and explain."

He shut the door after the cop, and came back to me. I had fallen into a chair. My knees were weak, and I was trembling all over.

"Have you seen the playlet, Charity at the Vaudeville?" he roared at me. I shook my head.

"Well, it's a scene in a foundling asylum. Here's a paces. Go up now and see it. If you hurry you'll get there just in time for that act. Then if you come to me at the office in the morning at ten, I'll give you a chance as one of the Charity girls. Do you want it?"

God, Mag! Do I want it!

CHAPTER V.

YOU remember Lady Cruelty's day at the Cruelty, Mag? Remember how the place smelt of the bare floors? Remember the black dresses we all wore, and the white aprons with the little blue, and the oily sweetness of the matron, and how our faces shone and tingled from the soap and the rubbing? Remember it all?

Well, who'd a thought then that Nance Olden ever would make use of it—on the level, too!

Drop the Cruelty, and tell you about the stage? Why, it's bare boards back there, bare as the Cruelty, but oh, there's something that you don't see, but you feel it—something magic that makes you want to pinch yourself to be sure you're awake. I go round there just doped with it; my face, if you could see it, must look like Molly's kid's when she is telling him fairy stories.

I love it, Mag! I love it!

And what do I do? That's what I was trying to tell you about the Cruelty for. It's in a little act that was made for Lady Gray, that there are four Charity girls on the stage, and I'm one of 'em.

Lady Gray? Why, Mag, how can you ever hope to get on if you don't know who's who? How can you expect me to associate with you if you're so ignorant? Yes—a real Lady, as pocket. Then he unhooked a telephone. Lined the stand from his desk.

"Hello! Spring 3100—please. Hello! Chief's office? This is Obermuller, Standard theater. I want an officer to take charge of a thief I've caught in my apartments here at the Bronsonia. Yes, right on the corner! Hold him till you come? Well—rather!"

He put down the 'phone. I pulled the pearl studs out of my pocket.

"You might as well take these, too," I said.

"So thoughtful of you, seeing that you'd be searched! But I'll take 'em, anyway. You intended them for—him? You didn't get anything else?"

"Shook my head as I lay there. I hum?" It was half a laugh, and half a sneer. I hated him for it, as he sat leaning back on the back legs of his chair, his thumb in his armholes. I felt his eyes—those smart, keen eyes, burning into my miserable head. I thought of the lawyer and the deal he'd give poor Tom, and all at once—

"You'd have sniffed yourself, Mag Monahan. There I was—caught. The cop'd be after me in five minutes. With Tom jugged, and me in stripes—it wasn't very jolly, and I lost my nerve."

"Ashamed—huh?" he said, lightly. I nodded. I was ashamed.

"Pity you didn't get ashamed before you broke in here."

"What the devil was there to be ashamed of?"

The sting in his voice had cured me. I never was a weeper. I sat up. My face blazed, and stared at him. He'd got me to hand over to the cop, but he hadn't got me to sneer at.

I saw by the look he gave me that he hadn't really seen me till then.

"Well," he answered, "what the devil is there to be ashamed of now?"

"Of being caught—that's what."

"Oh!"

He lifted back again on his chair and laughed softly.

"Then you're not ashamed of your profession?"

"Are you of yours?"

"Well—there's a slight difference."

"Not much, whatever it may be. It's your graft—it's everybody's—to take all he can get, and keep out of jail. That's mine, too."

"But you see I keep out of jail."

"I see you're not there—yet."

"Oh, I think you needn't worry about that. I'll keep out, thank you; imprisonment for debt don't go now-days."

"Debt?"

"I'm a theatrical manager, my girl, and I'm not on the inside—which is another way of saying that a man who can't swim has fallen overboard."

"And when you go down—"

"A little less exultation, my dear, or I might suppose you'd be glad when I do."

"Well, when you know yourself going down for the last time, do you mean to tell me you won't grab at a straw—like this?" I nodded toward the open window, and the desk with all its papers tumbling out.

"Not much." He shook his head, and bit the end of a cigar with sharp, white teeth. "It's a fool graft. I'm self-respecting. And I don't admire fools." He lit his cigar and puffed a minute, taking out his watch to look at it, as cold-bloodedly as though we were waiting, he and I, to go to supper together. Oh, how I hated him!

"Honesty isn't the best policy," he went on; "it's the only one. The vain fool that gets it into his head—or I say he gets it? No? Well, no offense. I assure you—his head, then, that he's smarter than a world full of experience, ought to be put in jail—for his own protection; he's too big a joy to be left out of doors. For 5,000 years, more or less, the world has been putting people like him behind bars, where they can't make asses of themselves. Yet each year, and every day and every hour, a new ninny is born who fancies he's cleverer than all his predecessors put together. Talk about snickers! Why, they're giants of intellect compared to the mentally lopsided that 5,000 years of experience can't teach. When the criminal-clown's turn comes, he hops, skips and jumps into the ring with the old, old gag. He thinks it's new, because he himself is so fresh and green. 'Here I am again,' he yells, 'the fellow that'll do you up. Others have tried that. They're dead, in jail or under jail-yards. But me—just watch me! We do, and after a little we put him with his mates and a keeper in a barred kindergarten where fools that can't learn, little moral cripples of both sexes, my dear, belong. Bah!' He puffed out the smoke, throwing his head back, in a cloud toward the ceiling.

I sprang from my seat and faced him. I was tingling all through. I didn't care a rap what became of me for just that minute. I forgot about Tom. I prayed that the cop wouldn't come for a minute yet—but only that I might answer him.

"You're nigger smart, ain't you? You can sit back here and sneer at me, can't you? And feel so big and smart and triumphant! What've you done but catch a girl at her first bungling job! It makes you feel awfully cocky, don't it? 'What a big man am I!' Bah!" I blew the smoke up toward the ceiling from my mouth, with just that satisfied gall that he had had; or rather, I pretended to. He let down the front legs of his chair and began to stare at me.

"And you don't know it all, Mr. Manager, not you. Your clown-criminal don't jump into the ring because he's so full of fun he can't stay out. He goes in for the same reason the real clown does—because he gets tired and thirsty and he's got to fill his stomach and cover his back and real as the wife of a Lord can be. Lord Harold Gray's a sure-enough Lord, and Gray's his wife, but—except a chippy, just the same; that's what she is. In spite of the Gray emeralds and that great Gray rose diamond she wears on the tiniest chain around her scraggy neck. Do you know, Mag Monahan, that this Lady Harold Gray was just a chorus girl—and a sweet chorus it must have been—if she sang there!—when she nabbed Lord Harold?"

You'd better keep your eye on Nancy Olden, or first thing you know she'll marry the czar of Russia—or Tom Morgan, poor fellow, when he gets out! ... Well, just the same, Mag, if that white-faced, scrawny little creature can be a lady, a girl with ten times her brains, and at least half a dozen times her good looks—oh, we're not throwing bouquets at ourselves! We're not showing bouquets at ourselves! Can she act? Don't be silly, Mag! Can't you see that Obermuller's just hiring her title and playing it in big letters on the bills for all it's worth? She acts the Lady Patroness. She comes on, though, looking like a fairy princess. Her dress is just blazing with diamonds. There's the lady's coronet in her hair. Her thin little arms are banded with gold and diamonds, and on her neck—O, Mag, Mag, that rose diamond is the color of rose leaves in a fountain's jet through which the sun is shining. It's long—long as my thumb—I swear it is, Mag—nearly, and it blazes, oh, it blazes—"

Well, it blazes dollars into Obermuller's box all right, for the Gray jewels are advertised in the bill with this one at the head of the list, the star of them all.

You see it's this way: Lord Harold Gray's bankrupt. He's poor as—as Nance Olden. Isn't that funny? But he's got the family jewels all right, to have as long as he lives. Nary a one can he sell, though, for after his death he'll go to the next Lord Gray. So he makes 'em make a living for him, makes 'em make 'em go on and exhibit and as they can't go on and exhibit themselves, Lady Gray sports 'em—and draws down $200 a week.

Yes—two hundred.

CHRONIC SORES

Wheeling, W. Va., May 28, 1903.

Some years ago while at work, I fell over a truck and severely injured both of my shins. My blood became poisoned as a result, and the doctor told me I would have running sores for life, and that if they were healed up the result would be fatal. Under this discouraging report I left off their treatment and resorted to the use of S. S. S. Its effects were prompt and gratifying. It took only a short while for the medicine to entirely cure up the sores, and I am not dead as the doctors intimated, nor have the sores ever broken out again. Some 12 years have elapsed since what I have described occurred. Having been so significantly benefited by its use I can heartily recommend it as the one great blood purifier.

Chronic sores start often from a pimple, scratch, bruise or boil, and white salves, washes and powders are beneficial, the unhealthy matter in the blood must be driven out or the sore will continue to eat and spread. S. S. S. reaches these old sores through the blood, builds up the entire system and strengthens the circulation. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic combined. Contains no mineral whatever but is guaranteed purely vegetable.

As you have an old sore write us and our physicians will advise without charge. Book on diseases of the blood free.

French Cars For Vanderbilt
Auto Race—Oarsman
J. B. Juvenal.

E. B. Gallaher of the Automobile Club of America has been notified by cable that the cars that finished first and second in the French eliminator trial for the Gordon Bennett cup will be sent to the United States later to compete for the Vanderbilt cup.

Thery and Caillols, who drove these cars in the French trial, will be their drivers in the Vanderbilt contest.

The cars will also compete in the races at Mineola, N. Y., given under the auspices of the Agricultural society of Queens-Nassau (N. Y.) counties. A novel feature of the sport there will be a race to test ability of man as an all around operator of a machine.

A white strip three-quarters of a yard wide will be placed in front of the judges' stand and reaching across the track. At the commencement and at the finish of each lap the front wheels must rest on the strip. Making a scudding start, the machines will go to the quarter pole, where a barrel will be placed in the center of the track. The machines must be driven around this barrel and stopped at starting point.

Drivers must leave the barrel, open the touneau door, take on a passenger, close the touneau door and lock it. This is to be repeated until three passengers have been taken aboard.

Champion Jim Jeffries says:

"I have been asked regarding the qualifications of a successful pugilist. I haven't thought much about the matter, but I believe a fighter is born, not made. I certainly am not a made fighter. I fought when I was a kid at school and the funny part of it was, always against boys several years older than I was. I guess the reason for that was I weighed 200 pounds when I was sixteen years old, and I was almost as tall as I am now."

"A real fighter should be big, rugged and game—full of sand. That last is of great importance. Another thing, a fighter wants to be on the square all the time. When I told my folks of my ambitions to become a prize fighter, my father, although a preacher, said he would not object, but he advised me to be honest all the time. I am not sorry because I became a pugilist. It was purely a business proposition with me. Now that it is poor business I am through."

The return of James B. Juvenal to the rowing arena has attracted wide attention. Juvenal is a member of the Vesper Boat club of Philadelphia.

Labor Notes

The Master Builders' Association of New York City and the Building Trades Alliance, the latter composed of thirty-two unions, with a total membership of 53,359, have formed a General Arbitration Board, with a standing executive committee of twelve members, half employers and half workmen, who will be paid $25 a month each.

The Japanese and Korean Exclusion League of San Francisco, reports good progress in its work of organizing and crystallizing public sentiment against the continued influx of coolie immigration. Numerous communications have been received from public men and civic bodies in various parts of the country giving assurances of interest and co-operation in the movement.

Members of the Seamen's unions throughout the United States will probably vote for affiliation of the International Seamen's Union of America with the International Transport Workers' Federation.

From all over Russia comes the report that agitators, especially among the Socialists, are urging manifestations and a removal of the strikes.

Jun Suzuki, now on a protracted diplomatic mission in this country, is the man who first introduced labor unions into Japan. This was done at the instigation of labor unions in Europe, especially in Great Britain. The methods employed were not English methods, and the idea alone as worked out by the Japs bears little resemblance to our own forms of trade unionism.

The national convention of the Amalgamated Glass Workers, representing 55 locals in various cities, recently in session in New York City decided unanimously to send delegates to a convention called by the socialists in Chicago, June 27, to form an industrial union.

The national glassworkers will be reorganized throughout the country with the object of making a national demand in the fall for higher wages, to be enforced by a national strike.

The Pacific coast branch of the International Longshoremen, Marine and Transport Workers' Association met in annual convention at Everett, Wash., recently.

Organized labor has never figured as a factor in the production of raw cotton. As there is but slight difference between the climate of Italy and that of the cotton belt of the United States, it seems to be practicable that white labor may solve the problem for the planter.

ABOUT RHODE ISLAND.

Not an Island, But Takes Its Name from an Island Named by Indians.

Rhode Island is the most interesting state in the union. Her people are generally known as "Gun-fits." She is about the size of a postage stamp, yet has two capitals, says the New York Press. Her rival in that respect, Connecticut, has two until New Haven yielded to Hartford in 1873. Rhode Island is not an island, being surrounded on three sides by dry land. There used to be an island of the name—the Indians called it "Aquidneck"—but its identity was lost when the "peaceful isle" annexed the Providence plantations. Wasn't that the original American "merger"? The name "Rhode Island" is of very obscure origin. The early settlers of "Little Rhody" had grim experiences, as we may infer from the names bestowed upon the physical features of the state. These represent the whole gamut of human suffering, human ambition, human weakness. Take the Islands Prudence, Patience, Hope, Despair, all under the hand of Providence. Add don't overlook Hog Island. The coat-of-arms is a golden anchor, fouled on a blue shield, and the motto is "Hope." Rhode Island in 1776 ordered that the name of the "Colony of Rhode Island" be the oath of allegiance instead of "to the King of Great Britain." Oh, she was a very proud, naughty, independent little body, and set herself up against the United States, refusing to ratify the constitution until congress threatened to treat her as a foreign power.

Reflections of a Spinster.
"I'm not so sure," said Aunt Ann, "that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. I'm inclined to think it's the other way. Mandy. The way to his stomach is through his heart. So long as he loves you he'll eat anything you cook."

REMARKABLY SMART COWS

Former Circus Man Has Trained His Cattle to Run a Ferry Boat.

It is an interesting sight to watch the performances of the trained cows on the farm of Herried Watcher, of Platon township, in this county, says a Le Sueur (Minn.) correspondence of the Chicago Chronicle. Mr. Watcher used to be an animal trainer with P. T. Barnum, and when he quit that business he bought a farm in this county and he has lived on it ever since. He took with him into private life many of the ideas with which he used to charm the spectators when he was one of the chief stays and supports of the great showman and finds use for his skill in getting his cow across a narrow lake that separates his pasture from the rest of the farm.

The lake at the place where the cattle have to cross is about 50 feet wide and is deep. Mr. Watcher strung a wire rope and fastened to it by pulleys a small ferry-boat about large enough to carry two cows. Then he trained the cows to ferry themselves over as follows:

One after another they run down a slight incline and jump upon the boat, stopping suddenly when they alight. The force of the jump sends the boat flying across the lake, and when it has reached the opposite side the cow jumps on shore as hard as she can, and the force of the jump kicks the boat back to the other side again, where the other cows, one by one, repeat the process until all have crossed. The last cow, however, walks slowly and carefully ashore, so as to have the boat ready for the trip when the herd wants to return. The calves do not have to be taught now. They inherit the talent, but cross with their mothers until they are two years old, each running side by side with the mother, both jumping at the same time.

DISLIKES REVOLVING DOORS

Lawyer's Man Trying to Serve Summons Was Defeated by Them.

"Revolving doors are a very nice thing for most people, but I don't like them," said a man who follows the unpopular calling of serving summonses, and who, according to Stray Stories, is employed by many lawyers because he seldom fails to catch his man.

"I was after a man one day," he continued, "and hearing that he was in a hotel, I went there and looked in through the glass of the revolving door. He was there, and the moment I caught sight of him he saw me."

He knew I wanted to serve him, and as I took my place in one section of the door he darted into the other, pushing the door along and forcing me to go with it.

"When we were both securely caged he made faces at me. As soon as there was room, he slipped out, ran down the steps, and was off round the corner like shot."

"I had kept on around with the door, and would have given him a run for his money; but three women had started to come in, and, as women generally do, all three insisted on getting into one compartment."

"They shuffled along, treading on each other's heels, and finally I got out, but that delay was fatal. He was out of sight, and I have not been able to lay eyes on him since."

DREAMS SOMETIMES FATAL

Fright Produced by Nightmare Has Been Known to Result in Death.

"I believe that dreams sometimes kill," said a prominent specialist on nervous diseases the other day, reports the Washington Star. "Of course, I don't know that they are fatal, but I have every reason to think so. I had a woman patient whom I was treating for a number of complications, including a weak heart. She could not bear any excitement, and I often warned her about exposing herself to any fright. She complained of having nightmares, and often woke up in a state of terrible fright, so weak that she could not call for help. One morning she was found dead in bed, with an expression of abject terror on her face. I have no doubt she died from fright produced by nightmare."

"Persons subject to nightmare who have weak hearts should avoid sleeping on the back. They should lie on the right side and have the right arm extended, so they will wake up if they turn over. Most nightmares are the result of sleeping on the back or the left side, where the heart is so compressed that it has little room for free action."

Ambition of a Princess.

Princess Charles of Denmark was recently seen at a railway terminus bidding adieu to a distinguished guest. Looking around with a bored expression, she saw a newspaper reporter scribbling away for dear life in his notebook. She, too, drew a tiny notebook from her pocket, wrote a message upon a leaf, and folded it into a tiny pellet. The reporter watched every motion with glistening eye! Some important bit of news, he was sure, was about to be given him. Sure enough, the princess threw the pellet of paper directly at him, with an unusually good aim for a woman, and immediately turned the other way, absorbed in her hospitable task. The reporter straightened out the crumpled leaf. On it were these words: "I wish I were a reporter."—Detroit Free Press.

SPORT IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Trout Are as Easily Caught as Sun-fish and Perch in the United States.

Brook trout and brown trout are not appreciated in Newfoundland, being far more common than are the perch and sunfish of the states, says the Country Calendar. Catching them will soon surfeit the angler who casts his flies from the shore of almost any lake. Such catches are counted by the dozen—one lot of 72 dozen being brought aboard the train at Harbor Grace. One dozen ten-inch trout usually sell for ten cents.

There are 687 named lakes on the island, and 30,000 known ones without names. The island has about 4,000 miles of seacoast, including that of bays like Bonaville, Notre Dame, Portune, St. Mary's, Bonne, St. George, Pincetia and Bay of Islands. From one to six streams of clear green water empty into each of these bays. Every stream that reaches salt water is a salmon stream. Back from all that coast are other and easily reached streams that have not even a tradition of a fishnet, rod or hook, and lakes never mapped where one may camp and add to the fare wild geese and ducks; willow grouse, whose plumage turns white in winter, ptarmigan, plover and curlew. These camping places bring a unique sense of remoteness and solitude. Only one who has actually seen the wall of darkness around a campfire in the Newfoundland jungles and over the tundras can understand the linge of fear that sometimes becomes almost appalling in the vast solitudes.

SALESMAN MADE EXAMPLE.

Pickle Manufacturer Makes Good Use of One Who Was an Able Talker.

Pittsburg, the home of the steel makers, also possesses a manufacturer of pickles who has attracted much attention by individual business methods, says the New York Tribune. He has salesmen all over the country, and once a year he sends out invitations to a general convention of his agents, which is held at the Pittsburg factory.

This convention was in session a few weeks ago, when the salesman of an elevator construction firm called on the head of the pickle house. For half an hour the young elevator salesman talked in a most interesting and persuasive manner. The pickle manufacturer was obviously pleased, and the sale seemed sure.

"Young man," said the old manufacturer, "that's a most convincing talk you've given me. I wonder if I could get you to repeat it to my salesman, who are holding a meeting here?"

The elevator salesman, feeling sure that he had made a sale, consented, and for another half hour he talked his nicest to an audience of several hundred pickle salesmen.

"There, gentlemen," declared the pickle manufacturer, when the other had finished. "There's a talk that is a talk. That's the way I want you to sell pickles."

Almost before he knew it, the elevator man found himself bowed out without having made a sale.

THE LAST AMERICAN KING.

Passing of Maximilian, the Gentle and Courageous Emperor of Mexico.

In March Maximilian and his followers were shut up in Queretaro. Many powerful influences were at work to save him, writes William Carrot Brown, in Atlantic. Seward also did his best. But he made little or no effort to escape. If he had failed as an emperor, he could at least have disaster with the courage and the dignity of a right princely nature. Betrayed by the infamous Lopez, tried before a court-martial of boys, and ordered to be shot, he spent his last days in the discharge of all the obligations of friendship and courtesy. A false report of the death of Carlotta being brought to him in prison, he said simply: "One less tie to bind me to the world!" Led forth to his execution, and told to stand between two of his generals who were likewise condemned, he surrendered the place of honor to Gen. M. ramon in recognition of his courage. The rattle of the muskets marked, perhaps, the end of all monarchy in the new world; but the bitter critic of democracy could scarcely desire a gentler figure than Maximilian's to stand before the eyes of Americans as the last representative of aristocracy and of kingship on this continent.

Waiter's Walk.

Some interesting particulars are given as to the ground covered by a waiter in dancing attendance upon the guests in a restaurant in Christiania. The waiter had provided himself with a pedometer before starting his work. According to his calculations he took rather under 100,000 steps, covering some 37 miles, between eight a. m. and 12:30 a. m. Working (and walking) four days a week, he calculated that he covered more than 7,000 miles in a year. Which would seem to show that Swedish waiters take their work very seriously, unless, indeed, the pedometer was "fast."—Westminster Gazette.
